THE POCKET CHAPLAIN

Support for those who serve.

Prayer, encouragement, and a one-tap way for deputies, staff, and their families to reach a chaplain, a pastor, or a trusted friend.

THREE BUTTONS, RIGHT ON THE HOME SCREEN

Reach a Chaplain
Your agency's chaplain by call or text, or a follow-up request

Reach My Pastor
Their own pastor, saved only on their phone

Reach a Friend
Someone they trust, saved only on their phone

WHAT'S INSIDE

- Pocket Chaplain library: short prayers, scripture, and encouragement for hard calls, grief, burnout, and family strain
- Private prayer requests, anonymous if they wish, seen only by the chaplain team
- For every faith: each person picks a faith preference, kept on their own phone
- Your badge, your contacts: your office gets its own branded copy
- Take a moment: a one-minute guided breathing pause with an optional prayer
- Share an Idea: a private way to suggest prayers, topics, and events
- Resources: chaplain, peer support, grief, counseling, family, and crisis lines
- Works on any phone, tablet, or computer, with no app store download

Free 90-day pilot

Try it with your whole office before you commit. No cost, no obligation.

From $600/yr

One yearly license by staff size. Families included.

This app is not monitored for emergencies. If you or someone else is in immediate danger, call 911. For a mental health crisis in the United States, call or text 988. The Pocket Chaplain supports a chaplain's ministry. It is not therapy, medical care, or emergency response.

Dear Sheriff [Last Name],

Thank you for the work you and your people do for [County Name] County. I'm writing because I have seen, in years of ministry alongside officers, how much your deputies carry home after a shift, and how often they carry it alone. Most of them would never call a hotline. Many would call someone they already trust, if that person were one tap away at the right moment.

That is why I built The Pocket Chaplain. It's a simple app for deputies, staff, and their families. The home screen has three large buttons: Reach a Chaplain, Reach My Pastor, and Reach a Friend. Tapping one opens the phone's own call or text screen, so the person stays in control. Alongside those buttons are short prayers, scripture, and encouragement for hard calls, grief, burnout, and family strain, a one-minute "Take a moment" breathing pause, and a private way to send a prayer request to the chaplain team.

I want to be clear about what it is not. The Pocket Chaplain does not replace your chaplain, a pastor, a friend, counseling, or emergency services. It is not therapy and it is not monitored for emergencies. Its purpose is to extend your chaplain's ministry and make it easier for someone to reach out before a hard week becomes a crisis. I also believe chaplaincy is for everyone, so each person can choose a faith preference, and content for other traditions is added with input from those faith leaders.

Privacy matters to the people you lead, so it shaped the design. A deputy's pastor and friend contacts are saved only on their own phone; neither your administrators nor I can see them. Prayer requests and ideas can be sent anonymously and are seen only by authorized chaplain-team administrators. There are no public profiles or public prayer feeds.

Your office would receive its own copy with your badge, your chaplain's contact information, and your local resources. I'd like to offer a free 90-day pilot for your entire office, families included, so you can see whether it helps your people before making any decision.

I would welcome 20 minutes to show you the app on your phone. Thank you for considering it, and for your service.

Respectfully,

Kendrick Meredith

AFTER THE CALL

The hardest part of the job often comes after the shift.

Deputies see what most people never will, and many carry it quietly. The Pocket Chaplain puts a chaplain, a pastor, and a trusted friend one tap away, so reaching out is as easy as it should be.

140 vs. 129
In 2017, more U.S. police officers died by suicide (140) than in the line of duty (129).[1]

Up to 5×
Rates of depression and PTSD among first responders are as much as five times higher than among civilians.[1]

53%
of officers in a 2025 department survey said they would not seek professional help if they were struggling.[2]

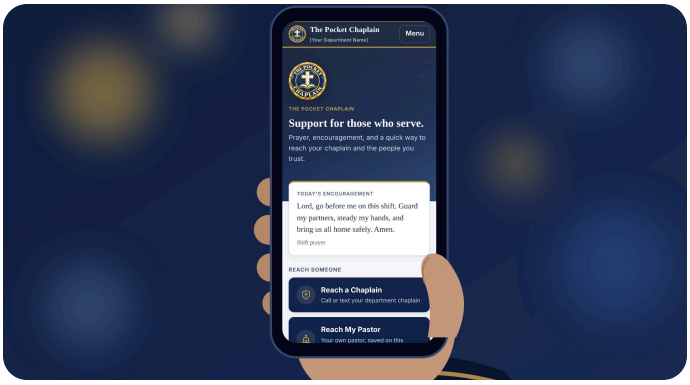

When a call stays with them

A short prayer, a moment to breathe, or a quiet way to ask the chaplain to follow up.

A real person to talk to

The app doesn't replace your chaplain. It helps your people reach them sooner, by call or text.

Help in their pocket

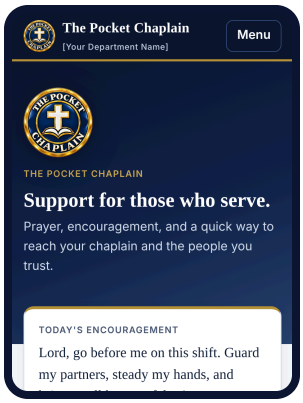

Works on the phone they already carry. No app store, no account, and the Reach buttons come first.

WHAT YOUR PEOPLE GET

Built to be used in the minute that matters.

No account to create and no menus to dig through. It is not therapy, counseling, or emergency response, and it is not monitored for emergencies.

Home screen

Reach a Chaplain

Call or text your designated chaplain. If no one is listed, a short form asks the chaplain to follow up.

Reach My Pastor / a Friend

Each person adds their own pastor and a trusted friend. Call or text opens their phone's own screen. Nothing dials or sends by itself.

Your office, your brand

Your badge, chaplain contacts, and local resources, with The Pocket Chaplain behind it.

Pocket Chaplain library

Searchable prayers, scripture, and reflections for stress, grief, family, burnout, and recovery after a hard incident.

Take a moment

A one-minute guided breathing pause with an optional prayer.

Prayer requests

Anonymous if they wish. They choose: chaplain team only, or an approved prayer group.

Share an Idea

Private suggestions for prayers, topics, events, and improvements.

For every faith

A faith preference kept on the phone. Other traditions are added with their leaders' input.

Resources

Chaplain, peer support, grief, counseling, family, and crisis contacts your office keeps up to date.

How privacy works

- Pastor and friend contacts stay on the person's own phone. They are never sent to the server. Administrators can't see them.
- Prayer requests, follow-up requests, and ideas are seen only by authorized chaplain-team administrators. Anonymous is always an option.
- No public profiles, comments, or prayer feeds. Nothing a deputy sends is shown to coworkers.
- We collect only what's needed to provide the support someone asks for. Users are reminded not to include case, personnel, or incident details.
- Private, but not a promise of total confidentiality. A plain-language privacy page explains what is collected and who can see it.
